

Why I Do What I Do

By PurplePanda101

Published on Stories Space on 02 Dec 2013

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/micro-fiction/why-i-do-what-i-do.aspx>

I have heard that some do it because it makes them feel better. I used to be like that, so naive. Though now I do it for another reason. I do it for punishment. I do it for all the mistakes I have made. I do it for all the people I have hurt. I do it for all the mistakes I will make. This is why I take my dull scissors from under my pillow and slide them hard over my arms. For I deserve this pain. I deserve this hurt. For I have hurt others far worse. I hope they can all forgive me. I hope you all can forgive me too.