

Don't Care, Grumpy Bear

By LauraDanielle

Published on Stories Space on 21 May 2019

All rights reserved. Under no circumstances are the stories, characters or settings to be reproduced in any way without the express permission of LauraDanielle. If you are seeing this story anywhere other than Stories Space then it has been copied without permission. No part of this story may be transmitted or reproduced in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopied, recording or otherwise without prior permission from LauraDanielle.

All characters and situations are fictitious unless otherwise stated that the situations/characters are real, any fictitious characters that bear any likeness, to living person(s) is purely coincidental and not intended to harm. {2016-2019}

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/musings/-dont-care-grumpy-bear-.aspx>

I was watching, amused, as two girls had a tiff over one of the activity boards. One of the girls stood up and made to walk away. The other girl said something I couldn't make out. The girl who was standing turned around, put her hands on her hips and declared loud and proud, "Don't care, grumpy bear!" then she stormed off in dramatic four-year-old fashion. That's a great line. I'm using that in any future tiffs or arguments I have. That's brilliant. On another bear related note, someone must have been staring at another child too long, because this child cast a rather annoyed look at her friend and then she said, "What are you looking at, stare bear?" which I suppose is the equivalent to what I used to say as a child. "Take a picture it'll last longer." Both of these lines are genius. I'm going to start spreading the word. Viva La Grumpy Bear Revolution!