With pockets of stars in eyes raven blue wings flickering bright making love in the pines and the salt beds where nature defines

In the moonlight hypnotizing our worlds where crickets now gather in the doorway with a satchel full of shadows

Laying in the needles inside an earthen pot caught in the whirlwinds of man-made sins an asterisk in my mind as we thirst

With lightning bolts of thunder and the rain a symphony for lovers in a bucolic setting with pockets of stars in eyes raven blue wings
