

The ducks are on the water

By Wordpusher715

Published on Stories Space on 31 Jan 2019

Copyright 2020...to infinity and beyond...
Do something good today and don't take what is not yours. You can email me at Trystin715@hotmail.com for permission.

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/poetry/-the-ducks-are-on-the-water-.aspx>

The ducks are on the water At twenty-three below. They are so intelligent, Are you saying you don't know?

Its fifty-five degrees warmer, Than being in the air, The water's above freezing, Ducks swim without a care.

'Course we're talkin' free rivers, Not some flat and large calm lake, Where the ice is twenty-inches thick, For Pete's and Goodness' sake!

So when you see an ice hole, With some men ice fishing, You know ducks are quacking smack, While the men are drinking:

"They should jump into the water, If'n they want to warm up real nice, Ya know they downright ought-er, Get out the air 'n off that effin' ice!

"We ducks are on the water At twenty-three below, Men are not so intelligent. Are you saying you don't know?"