

All is Gone

By a_gabardo

Published on Stories Space on 10 Mar 2016

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/poetry/all-is-gone.aspx>

All is Gone - Adrian Gabardo I guess it's true, everything does turn to rust, time is such a careless bitch, dropping you to the ground on every opportunity. Everything I've been, has now vanished, the once sweet kid, is just a bag of sorrow and apathy. My will has carried on, like the grains of sand, carried by the wind, far from my reach. My wish to live has disappeared, I feel like I'm just passing by, like the man with the camera, observing all that stands the time. Where is that beautiful smile? Where is that little child, who I once was, with no worries, and no troubles. Life has just been a huge pain, I guess... Testing my resistance, to see how far I can bend before I break, maybe tomorrow it will just end.