

Summer Breeze

By ladysharon

Published on Stories Space on 27 Jun 2011

This story is protected under copyright. Violators will be prosecuted.

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/poetry/summer-breeze.aspx>

The hot sun Warms my skin Sky-blue heavens, Not a cloud in sight. Birds chirping away In their bird language Children chasing The ice cream truck Families gathered together For a cookout in the park Beach goers swimming in The rivers, lakes and Swimming holes. As for me, I'm enjoying a lazy Summer breeze in a hammock With a water bottle, A good book to read, And daydreaming about The future.