

Facebook

STRIKING, MIRACULOUS SOCIAL TEAM-UP!

SHARE abundantly your photographs, experiences and stories with your friends and families. For leisure or labour, Facebook is the enchantment "next look" in social team-ups. Eloquent economical and modern examples of communication adequate for our times.

THE FACEBOOK COMPANY ©

The Facebook Poem

By DirtyMartini

Published on Stories Space on 19 Feb 2011

All stories, plays, songs, poems and miscellaneous ramblings copyright Alan W. Jankowski...feel free to use my stuff as you like...in fact, get it published and sell it all...just remember where to send the check...

Admit it...you knew this had to be coming...

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/poetry/the-facebook-poem.aspx>

I'd heard about social networking, And how it was the next big thing, So I just had to take a look, And ended up on Facebook. It only took me a little while, To fill out most of my profile, But I have spent many a night, Figuring out the rest of the site. I never realized I had so many friends, The friend requests never end, All the people I can't stand at work, And now the biggest high school jerk. I have to admit I've learned a bunch, I know what all my friends eat for lunch, And it really helps me that I know, Everyone's favorite TV show. The work on Facebook never stops, I have to water my imaginary crops, Send get-well wishes to Farmville quick, My friend's imaginary cow got sick. I now realize my chances are dire, Of ever building a Mafia empire, And perhaps it is a bit of a shame, My It Girl will never go on to fame. My kids' statuses tell me of their life, At dinner time I get poked by the wife, I try to keep my friend count nice and fat, So, I even signed up the dog and cat. I guess you can say my life's complete, I have more friends than I'll ever meet, On Facebook I can roam far and wide, And I never have to go outside. 02-19-11.