From the moment I met you , you touched my soul We had this deep connection, a bound We became one, you in me and me in you It never crossed mind that we could ever part You were my heart, my everything This is the last time The last time Together we lied, we cheated , we stole Together we won, and we lost We stood by one another through it all And just like that, you turned your back You gave up on what we had This is the last time The last time My heart you left, I stand alone My heart you broke so deep It turned my soul cold But this is the last time The last time This is the last time I call you my love My baby My lady Forever your friend....
