

What Is Romance

By frogprince

Published on Stories Space on 12 Aug 2013

Copyright 2012, 2013 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017 by Cal Erickson, aka frogprincePosted with permission at storiesspace.comAll other rights reserved.

What is romance? It seems like such a simple thing.

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/poetry/what-is-romance.aspx>

Romance is such a wonderful thing. Romance is a way of showing someone you care. Romance is a way of showing the person you care about that you are thinking of them. Romance is a way of showing someone you love them. Romance is a way of showing the person you love that you are thinking of them. Romance is a way of showing someone you like or choose to cherish. Romance is a hand written note. Romance is going for a walk. Romance is a soft caress. Romance is a word whispered softly. Romance is a casually made look. Romance is a simple gesture. Romance is something simple and sweet. Romance is the simple act of making something for that person to eat. Romance is doing something special for someone you love. Romance is doing something that reminds your partner why they fell in love with you. Romance is doing something special for someone unexpected. Romance is doing something special for someone you care about deeply. Romance is doing something that reminds your partner why they care so much for you. Romance is doing something special for someone even though you do not have to. Romance is the weirdest yet exciting feeling ever felt in this universe. Romance is completely individual. Romance is never forced. Romance is any affectionate act that takes place between two people. Romance is any affectionate act where one seeks the other. Romance is truly focusing on pleasing that one person while you are with them. Romance is sitting holding hands watching a movie you hate but your partner loves. Romance is used to set up and maintain intimacy and emotional closeness. Romance is not a greeting card. Romance is not Valentine's Day. Romance is not a box of candy. Romance is not even roses. Romance is not manufactured. Romance is not something that has limits. True romance is thinking of them when they are not around and smiling.