

What You Don't Know

By Gypsygyrl

Published on Stories Space on 30 Aug 2016

2016-2018. Gypsygyrl. All Rights Reserved, All stories and poems written by Gypsygyrl. No portion, in whole or part, can be borrowed, linked or reproduced without her expressed written consent. Thank you.

When all that we have is my love...

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/poetry/what-you-dont-know.aspx>

You may not know

for I won't tell

just how much

you've cast your spell

Stolen moments

borrowed time

shared jokes

happy lines

Thoughts of you

makes my heart race

awake and alone

I imagine your face

With just your presence

makes me feel anew

for all I want is a moment with you

Each word you sketch

a perfect reflection

who can blame those that steal your affection

So this game we play

you lead and I follow

while with your absence makes me feel hollow

Don't go so soon

stay for a while the stirrings I hide

are less like my style

Not used to having to fight for attention

I'm much too afraid

to ask your intention

You may never know

for I won't tell

that it's you alone

that I have felt

**a very special thanks to my mentor, Ping. I appreciate you so greatly for your continued guidance, patience, editing, humor, inspiration, friendship and support. **