

You Make Me Smile

By texasgal70

Published on Stories Space on 14 Apr 2012

Smiling because of my sweet man from Mars.....

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/poetry/you-make-me-smile.aspx>

You have come into my life like a breath of fresh air Wherever I am, no matter what I am doing You make me smile. As I awaken each morning there is a smile on my face reminiscing of dreams filled with you..... Sweet thoughts of you fill my day knowing that I will soon hear or read those sweet words you fill my heart with. I see your name appear and it makes me smile. I wonder could he be this happy and smiling constantly as me? There are days I feel inebriated with thoughts of your touch, your smell, your taste. I feel your hands touching my skin and I lose control. I feel your lips on mine and my mouth slowly opens to take your tongue. I lose myself in thoughts of you and me..... My eyes open and I awaken from my inebriated state, with a smile only you bring to my face, my heart. My heart was in pain because of someone else's lies and childish ways; without even knowing you brightened my day! I hope our smiles will never fade and they continue to fill our days with happiness! They say men are from Mars and women are from Venus but in our world only we exist; our smiles.....our happiness.