

Intermission I

By Patrick

Published on Stories Space on 09 Jul 2011

A song on my music album which will be no longer than a minute and stands as a intermission track

<https://www.storiesspace.com/stories/songs/intermission-i.aspx>

too many nights have gone on without sleep too many promises made that I couldn't keep too many (record skip sound) being sniffed up into me to ever really care much about anything mirrors they show reflection, but they don't show through skin so there's been too many times where I've held it all in too many times I haven't known where to begin to tell her how I feel before the night ends